Fire King Pitcher

The older you get the more you learn. In all my days I would have never thought that I would be writing a blog on Fire King. In my mind it has always been at the low end of collecting but I guess I was wrong.

After doing a some research on a house sale I did for my friend the Fire King set that we sold is on eBay for almost $500.

Needless to say we didn't get anything near that for our set. However while checking I ran across many pieces of this glass that are selling for big prices.

The pitcher featured is priced at $2500 and it is going to sell. There are many other items listed on the eBay site that you should familiarize yourself with.

There is one to be made with this ware even in a depressed market.

Fire King who would have thought.
